Observation Run

Sunday 8th January

Our day started at the Commissary Café meeting point opposite Victoria Park race course. After we were all fuelled up with coffee and cake our cruise captains Greg and Christine gave us a quick briefing about the day ahead, then it was time to hit the road. A steady stream of Corvettes rumbled out of town and up the freeway into the picturesque Adelaide Hills.

Keeping your eyes wide open was the name of the game on this run as we all juggled reading the clues on the question sheet, searching for the relevant landmarks and of course looking out for everyone else on the road!

After a pleasant cruise through the hills we all converged on the newly renovated Uraidla Hotel for lunch. But there was one last and what turned out to be crucial task left to do....hand sketch a drawing of the hotel itself.

As we waited for lunch the answers to all the questions were revealed. The scores were so close that the artistic skills of the contenders was going to be the deciding factor. The triumphant winner was Bob Butler who surprised us all with his hidden artistic abilities. The final runner up (...that's a nice way of saying last place) was David Daw.

A great day out was had by all and we would especially like to welcome David & Helen Askins who joined us for the day in their silver 1989 convertible, hope you enjoyed your day out.

Artists or is that B.S. Artists?

800-hp Yenko Chevrolet Corvette Unveiled Ahead of Barret-Jackson Scottsdale Debut

By Kirill Ougarov, 12 January 2017 www.automobilemag.com

HUNTINGTON BEACH, California — Move over, Hellcat, there's a new horsepower king in town. The 800-hp Yenko 2017 Chevrolet Corvette was unveiled earlier to a small group of media at an event held at the headquarters of Classic Industries, a Southern California-based purveyor of restoration and aftermarket parts for Chevrolet and Mopar muscle cars.

Built by Tom's River, New Jersey-based Specialty Vehicle Engineering (SVE), which uses the famous Yenko name under license, this car starts life out as a conventional Corvette Grand Sport. SVE then increases the LT-1 V-8s displacement from 6.2 litres to 6.8 (or 416 cubic inches, if you prefer Imperial units), replacing a number of the components in the process; SVE's version is fitted with a forged steel crankshaft, forged aluminum pistons, and CNC ported and polished cylinder heads.

Topping things off, literally and figuratively, is a 2.9-litre twin-screw supercharger fed by the fuel system from the LT-4 V-8 found in the Corvette Z06. In all, SVE's creation is good for 800 hp and 750 lb-ft of torque - and can be had with both transmissions offered by Chevrolet in the Grand Sport, a seven-speed manual or an eight-speed automatic.

Aside from the engine, the rest of the Yenko modifications appear to be purely cosmetic. Yenko badges are added throughout the exterior, interior, and are even found on the brake calipers, just to make sure everyone knows it's a Yenko.

SVE will unveil the Yenko Corvette to the public at the 2017 Barret-Jackson Scottsdale sale. The package costs US$46,000 on top of the cost of the Grand Sport itself. It can be had with the coupe or convertible, but just 50 will be built, so get your orders in to SVE now. Unless you live in California, in which case you're out of luck as this Yenko, unsurprisingly, does not meet the state's strict emissions regulations, most likely because SVE was unwilling to pay for CARB certification for such a small run of aftermarket engines.

Thanks to Dave Schrapel for forwarding this article through.

At a recent meeting Jack asked me about the availability of C7 convertible models. Something I have been on the look out for a while to add to my collection. I seriously thought that by now one of the main stream manufacturers would have had something on offer. The quick answer is if you want a 1/24th scale or lower yes they are available. In 1/18th the only manufacturer of a convertible is BBR. There is nothing wrong with 1/24th scale other than you compromise on detail. There are a hell of a lot more models available in the 1/24th scale, with probably every Corvette thought about being represented. The basic principal here being the lower the scale the more models there are available. But it also mean that the lower the scale the less detail and sometimes quality. So back to the question at hand 1/18th C7 Convertibles. I have a BBR model in my collection it's a fantastic replica of the C7-R Daytona. The downside on this brand is there is nothing that opens. There isn't a drive train, the wheels are fixed, as is the model to a leather platform. They are however a fantastic reproduction in resin of the actual cars with a great amount of detail. KB has a BBR convertible in silver which is a stunning replica of the real deal. Personally I have held off buying a BBR waiting for one of the mass production suppliers like Maisto or Autoart to bring one out. Most of the major model makers have a coming soon page on their web sites and so far there just isn't anyone who seems to be thinking about the convertible C7. The other factor here is the price BBR is not a cheap brand they run at between $400 and $900 depending on colour as there are limited runs in various colours with only around 1000 models per run and sometimes as few as 200 dependant on the actual version you are purchasing.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL CLUB MEMBERS

What: A vote will take place at our next Annual General Meeting to change the following section of our current club constitution.

Section 11: Amendments of the Rules

When: AGM, Wednesday 1st March 2017

Why: It is proposed to change only this section of the club constitution such that we can more easily achieve a quorum. Currently it is difficult to get a sufficient number of members at meetings to reach a quorum and therefore enable us to modify our club constitution.

How: We need as many Full Members to attend the AGM as possible. This will give us the best possible chance of achieving a quorum and avoiding the unnecessary expense of modifying this section of the constitution through legal means.

Please attend this meeting to help our club progress.

A Romantic Night...

By Dave Sargent

First Wednesday of the month is the Corvette Meeting. I mentioned to Rachel if she wanted to go. She said yes, but only if it is an early night, as I have work tomorrow. No worries!

Early night it is, until we go to leave!

The key didn't want to talk to the Monaro. Alarm sounds. No worries, we will pull it apart with a trusty pocket knife and wiggle the battery around. It will be fine.

Try again... nup... still not happy! Another car alarm. Ok, time to call the RAA..... they will be about 90 minutes. So much for the early night. Sitting waiting for the RAA. The (silly) secretary says, why don't you try it again since it has been sitting for a while. So, I pull the key apart with another pocket knife, take the inside bit out to the car and try again. It doesn't work... sorry about the car alarm going off about 5 times!!!

While sitting back in the club rooms, putting the key back together, I notice the small pin out of the key is missing. Where is the pin, I say. So with others walking around with torches, phone lights and anything else we can find, we start looking for the pin. What else are we going to do!!! What are the chances of finding this 1/2 inch steel pin.... none and Buckleys. Plenty of twigs.... !

RAA arrives about 10.30 and tries to get the key working.... 'we need the pin' he states. He tried to manufacture one with no luck.

By this time, we are sick of standing, so Catherine gets some deck chairs so Rachel and her can sit down.

As we sit done, Rachel states... I wonder what that is... she picks up this thing, saying, 'is this it' and lo and behold, it is!!! She found it!!! What a girl!!!

RAA man tries again - with the pin. More alarms and then gives up and calls tow truck.

I can fix it, I tell Rachel. Will be able to fix it tonight....!!!!

Off we go in the tow truck about 11.30 with the car on the back.

What a romantic night - Rachel's first ride in a tow truck. What a lucky girl!!!!

Hope you were able to fix it Dave and hope Rachel's next day was ok!!

LAURIE'S LAST LAUGH

A Texan walks into a pub in Ireland and clears his voice to the crowd of drinkers. He says, "I hear you Irish are a bunch of hard drinkers. I'll give $500 American dollars to anybody in here who can drink 10 pints of Guinness back-to-back."

The room is quiet and no one takes up the Texan's offer. One man even leaves. Thirty minutes later the same gentleman who left shows back up and taps the Texan on the shoulder. "Is your bet still good?", asks the Irishman. The Texan says yes and asks the bartender to line up 10 pints of Guinness. Immediately the Irishman tears into all 10 of the pint glasses drinking them all back-to-back. The other pub patrons cheer as the Texan sits in amazement.

The Texan gives the Irishman the $500 and says, "If ya don't mind me askin', where did you go for that 30 minutes you were gone?" The Irishman replies, "Oh...I had to go to the pub down the street to see if I could do it first".

Just been to the gym. They've got a new machine in.

Could only use it for half an hour, as I started to feel sick.

It's great though; it provides me with everything I need: Kit-Kats, Mars bars, Snickers, Potato chips, the lot."
