FEBRUARY NEWSLETTER 2016

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

I would like all members to think about what they want from their committee, please consider if you want to be involved in the direction that you want this great club to go. We as a committee are in it for you and hope to get the direction from you to keep us a strong and viable club. So if you want to take a position yourself please nominate or nominate someone you feel will be good for the club. We will help in any way that is required to get you involved if that is what you want.

We will be electing a new committee in March and also voting on the constitution changes so if you can get there, we would love to see you.

Cheers Laurie

From the Secretary

A reminder to all members that the Annual General Meeting will be held on the 2nd March this year at which time the re-election of the officers on the Committee will be held.

It has been said many times before but our club will only be as successful as the effort members put in to support it so all nominations will be gratefully received as all positions will be made vacant at the AGM.

During February, Committee Position Descriptions, Nomination Forms and the current and new "Draft" Constitutions will be made available for all to read which will give a great overview of what is to come for the new financial year 2016-17.

For me personally I will not be re-submitting my name to be part of the committee as I have been involved as Secretary for the last four years to include the 2014 Convention Committee and recently the Sub Committee for the Constitution. It is now time for someone else to come into this role and put a new perspective on it.

I will of course give the new person all the support I can to ensure the transition is as easy as it can be so think positive and give it a go. Call 0428 394 710 or email me at dellter@adam.com.au if you wish to find out more.

As part of the Executive Committee this must be filled by a current Full member.

Also I wish to sincerely thank all members of the committee for supporting me over this period and wish the club well for the future which I intend to continue to be an active part of. John Randell.

CORVETTES IN CROMWELL

I thought it was about time we had a story about our neighbours from across the ditch.....no not the small ditch to Tasmania, the bigger ditch to New Zealand. Pictured below is just a small sample of the many Corvettes which turned out for the Cromwell Classic Car & Hot Rod Show 2016 held in the Central Otago region of New Zealand's South Island. Almost all different generations of Corvette were on display. Great to see our Kiwi counterparts out enjoying the summer in their cars. Photo's by Lachlan Falconer

Speculation of an Electric Corvette Grows After GM Trademarks 'Corvette E-Ray'

With all the speculation about a possible mid-engine Corvette finally becoming a reality, General Motors has thrown a curve ball at the rumour mill. According to Chris Doan Automotive, GM recently filed two trademarks (numbers 86850510 and 86850500) that have fueled speculation the company is considering some type of an electrified version of the Corvette.

One of those trademarks is for "Corvette E-Ray," which most people assume would be used as the name of an electric Corvette. Of course, the filing could just be a preventative measure to keep someone else from using the name.

On the other hand, other automakers are reportedly working on electrified sports cars, including Nissan, BMW, Porsche, Acura, and Tesla.

The market quite likely would be there for an electric Corvette, pure or hybrid version, especially if it can deliver the out-of-the-ballpark performance numbers that have already been unearthed by Tesla. Some websites speculate that a Corvette E-Ray would first be shown as a concept car, perhaps at an event such as the North American International Auto Show in Detroit, the next of which begins Jan. 11, 2016.

Regardless, don't you just know that Chevrolet is sitting back and loving the free publicity it's getting right now for the Corvette?

As Corvette Chief Engineer Tadge Juechter has been quoted as saying: "We left everything on the playing field with the Z06; we didn't leave performance headroom for a ZR1." Sounds like a move to a different kind of powerplant or architecture might be the only answer to make a better Corvette.

Or as Tadge also said recently: "We don't talk about future product, I'm sorry. Eventually all will be revealed."

Enthusiasts can't wait.

Crazy Car Covers

So you can't afford a C-7 let alone the multi million dollar price tag on a C7-R or the less pricey C7 ZO6.R well here's the answer.....a car cover, sure you can't drive it but want to make the neighbours even more envious just park it in the drive way. Sure the front tyres look flat but hell you can't drive it anyway. Or maybe you would rather have the C7 DeLorean which has 4 flat tyres. Hell if your gunna do a rip off at least get the tail lights right ! Buy the latest ZO6.R road packages and you get one of these free. At a mere $1500 they're an absolute steal !

Checklist for Summer Cruising

Let's face it: summer has officially arrived. If you have not already done so, now is the time to make sure that your Corvette is ready for vacation travel, car shows, and everyday commuting in extreme temperatures. Use this brief guide to ensure that you address all of the major summer maintenance tasks. These topics are covered in more depth in prior Corvette Central Tech articles.

We will start by addressing what is arguably the most important system to properly maintain during the summer months: the cooling system. Overheating can lead to very costly repairs. Keep your Corvette's engine cool and it will return the favour. Closely monitor the level and quality of coolant in the system and completely flush and change the fluid every two years. Inspect the air filter and clean or replace as needed. While you are there, check to make sure your Corvette hasn't been vacuuming up road debris. To avoid extensive cleaning hassles in the future, a radiator protection screen is a great investment. Just be sure to check it often to make sure debris hasn't been trapped on it. Lastly, inspect all hoses and replace them as needed. It is far easier to replace them now while you are working on the cooling system as opposed to taking a chance and ending up on the side of the road.

Radiator removed for cleaning

Debris that was sandwiched between condenser and radiator.

Now that you have ensured your Corvette can handle the heat, you will want to get the A/C system in perfect working order. If the current cooling capacity leaves a lot to be desired and the compressor clutch cycles rapidly, it is probably time for a refrigerant recharge. Unfortunately, if the system needs refrigerant, it is possible a component is leaking. Check the belt(s) at this time too.

Speaking of A/C, take a look under your Corvette while the A/C is running. Hot, humid days should produce a puddle beneath the passenger side behind the front tire. You should also see water draining out behind the front tires from the cowl. Plugged cowl drains will wet the interior carpeting and create a musty smell as the temperatures rise.

You will want to check all of the fluids and make sure everything is clean and topped off. Fluids to check as part of the lube, oil, and filter job include engine oil, transmission fluid, brake fluid, and power steering fluid. It is a good idea to lube the suspension components at this time if you have not done so in several months.

With the increased load of an A/C system in continuous use comes an increased load on the charging system. If you have had your car in storage for any length of time without a battery tender, charge the battery before setting out on your first cruise of the season. Your alternator will thank you. Replace the battery if it just cannot keep up with the demand and refuses to hold a charge.

Take the opportunity to top off the windshield washer fluid and replace worn windshield wipers. If you do, the first summer storm you encounter will pose no inconvenience or threat. As an added safety precaution, check the operation of all of the exterior lights. Enlist the help of a friend or family member to test the headlights, high beams, fog lights, turn signals, reverse lights, and brake lights.

Your Corvette is almost ready to hit the road, but before it does, do not forget the tires, your car's only contact with the ground. Improperly inflated tires wear poorly at best and blow out at worst. They also waste precious fuel. Properly inflate each tire and check the tread depth. If you notice a significantly different wear pattern on one or more tires, it may be time for a four wheel alignment. Take a close look at the sidewalls near the wheels outer rim, fine checking (cracks) occurs as the tires age and lose natural lubricants. Tires over 5 years old begin checking and are susceptible to catastrophic failure.

Now that all of the major safety concerns have been addressed, you can focus on enjoying your time on the road. A few accessories you may wish to consider to make the drive even more enjoyable include a GPS mount and cold drink holder. A soft top pillow is a nice addition that can keep your rear window in great shape and a sun roof headliner allows you to enjoy the view above while blocking the intense sunlight.

The Ventmaster for Corvettes with rear hatches has received positive reviews and will help reduce or eliminate wind buffeting at highway speed. It is also handy for ventilating the car during car shows or any time it is sitting idle under your supervision.

A wash and coat of wax (don't forget the headlights) are the last items to check off of the task list. This will make future bug and debris clean up a bit less time consuming. Consider using a nose mask for longer trips. Don't forget to store some car wash soap, wax, and quick detail supplies in the car for those impromptu car show clean-ups. A high quality car cover will keep your Corvette looking great day after day and provides excellent protection from the harsh summer sun.

The interior of your Corvette deserves special treatment as well. Before you apply a preservative to any vinyl or leather components, be sure to wipe them down with a wet cloth first to remove dust and dirt.

A roadside emergency kit is always a good idea along with a fire extinguisher. Add those items and you are ready for summer fun without any vehicle related worries!
